

DIGGING THROUGH OLD ARTICLES...

Steven Clemons asks a question many of us (not least Swopa) have been asking for two years. Who is the SA0 in the WaPo's September 28 article?

But Jeff has gotten me re-examining an even more intriguing article, the October 12 WaPo article the followed up and elaborated on the earlier WaPo article. This article is interesting because while it largely aligns with what we know from Libby's indictment, it also suggests there is a lot more right under the surface. The article is sourced to "sources familiar with the probe" (Wilson appears to have been interviewed, the famous SA0 from the September 28 article was interviewed again, and someone from CIA was interviewed). Here are some random interesting tidbits from the article.
