

LOOKIE HERE! MY OWN DIGS!

In case you've been wondering what I've been bubbling about over the past few weeks, it was this move. I'm really grateful that Jane invited me to build a shack in her back yard. She and Pach and Jamie have been doing superb work setting up the new mega site. I'd like to thank Caz, too, who designed the site; I was not a very easy person to work with on the design, I'm afraid.

I'll be moving things in over the next several days (blogroll, categories, those kinds of things). And I'm planning some ways to collect weedy information in even more forms. After that's done, I'll explain a little more about what I'm going to try to do here, that's slightly different from my old TNH digs.

In the meantime, make yourself at home.