

GIRLZ OUT LOUD

Just so you know, I'm still watching the Sunday show line-ups to see whether all the smart girlz who were on during the election still get invited back.

And FWIW, we've got two girlz of significance this week: Laura Bush (well, I'm not going to tune in, but she is a girl and she'll be on before pickling hour), and Claire McCaskill. If I'm not mistaken, McCaskill will be the first girl on Fox News Sunday since the election. May she channel her best prosecutor kick-ass when she faces off against Richard Shelby, particularly if and when they talk auto bailout (remember, Missouri has a number of (union) auto plants.
