

CONYERS (ET AL) TO ARCHIVIST: HOW SUCCESSFUL WERE THEY AT DESTROYING EVIDENCE?

As John Conyers has suggested, if the Bush Administration destroyed Philip Zelikow's dissent to Bradbury's torture memo, it's a violation of the Presidential Records Act, in addition to—potentially—evidence of criminal intent.